

One of our on going projects is help and technical support for the popular classic mini forum www.minifinity.com

One of the issues faced as the site has grown is the current menu system is very restrictive, we have been working on a new cross browser based dropdown menu system. This is not 100% but you get the idea from the picture below

